NEPALESE DRYER BALLS

The holidays remind us to be grateful for what we have. Nothing highlights our gratitude more than heartwarming stories like that of the amazing women who make our Nepalese Dryer Balls. In the region of Nepal where Wintergreen oil is harvested, a group of women in the Raksha Shelter handmake our woollen dryer balls. These women have been freed from exploitation and now have a working partnership with dōTERRA to help them rebuild their lives.

Our Dryer Balls are Fair Trade, organic, and free of chemicals and dyes. The accompanying 100% cotton drawstring bag is also handmade by the women of the Raksha Shelter in Nepal.

Through the dōTERRA Cō-Impact Sourcing™ initiative, these women can now provide financial security for themselves, their families, and continue on their path towards healing. By purchasing the Nepalese Dryer Ball Set, you can help increase economic opportunity in Nepal's disadvantaged regions and own a meaningful reminder of the positive impact of ethically sourced essential oils.
